SIX BALLOTS; NO ELECTION.

Votes Were Badly Scattered Exciting Times Are Ahead--
at Republican Caucus
Last Evening.

(Special to the Tribune)
CAPITOL, SACRAMENTO, Feb. 2.—The outcome of the first round of the great Senatorial contest leaves the situation in a more perplexing condition than ever as far as the outlook is concerned. The honors unquestionably belong to Colonel Burns and Thomas R. Bard. For they have set all the pace and have made whatever gains have been scored to anyone's credit. The best way to tell the story of the eventful caucus commenced last night and to be continued this evening at 8 o'clock is to summarize the totals obtained by each ballot. Here they are:

The Democratic fight is still in a tangled condition. Each side was afraid to go on when the caucus was called together last night and as soon as this became apparent a motion was made to adjourn the whole matter until Monday evening next, and was carried without opposition. The developments then will undoubtedly be as forecast in THE TRIBUNE last night, that is to say, a compromise will be reached on the basis of giving the first complimentary vote to Stevo White, and after that a ballot is to be recorded for Phelan. The Philanthropists object to this, for they want to hog the whole game, but as they can plainly see that it is either that or a row in their caucus the compromise will probably go through.

Supervisor Larry Dwyer of San Francisco, who resigned his State Senatorship the first of the year, is up doing what he can for Phelan among his old-time Democratic comrades.

Dick Beamer of the State Board of Equalization is down from Woodland.

Howard Wright is getting around much better than was generally expected.

He had a regular love in the Assembly chamber last night, for all the members were anxious to congratulate him upon his narrow escape and the pluck he displayed in leaving his bed and coming to Sacramento.

Ed Corrigan got in last night from San Francisco.

Dr. and Mrs. Flint are up from San Jose.

Rod Church has been taking in the sights the last couple of days.

HATTON.

the best of conditions the opposition is short of the requisite number, and if these missing votes are not with Burns the presumption is that they are for him in accordance with the old axiom that "he who is not for me is against me." Senator Stratton and the other anti-Burns men insist, however, that they have forty-seven members who cannot be prevailed upon to vote for the Colonel at any time, the list in question being as follows:

Senators—Boyce, Bulla, Burnett, Currier, Cutler, Davis, Flint, Gillette, Jones, Luchsinger, Maggard, Nutt, Rowell, Smith, Stratton, Taylor.

Assemblymen—Anderson, Atherton, Belshaw, Bliss, Blood, Boynton, Brown, Cargill, Clark, Clough, Conrey, Crouder, De Lancie, Dunlap, Greenwell, Huber, Knights, Knowland, Le Baron, Le Baron, Lardner, McDonald of Tuolumne, Melick, Merritt, Muenster, Radcliff, Raub, Raw, Robinson, Valentine, Works.

There is one satisfaction about the whole thing, and that is that the agony will soon be over. It will undoubtedly come to a culmination before Tuesday next, when the first ballot is taken in joint session, for by that time either the Burns forces will have made their anticipated advance and will have won, or else the opposition will have crystallized itself into an effective working shape.

Under the present conditions, however, it is plain that the anti-Burns vote cannot be centered upon any one of the candidates now before the caucus, for so much jealousy and envy exists that the members who have been voting for one man rebel at the idea of going to one of the others, lest if he should be successful the latter's share of his favors would be subsequently conferred upon those who stood up for him early in the fight.

The anti-Burns men themselves are all at sea, therefore, as to what they propose to do, and under these conditions it looks as if the splendid organization that is lined up and hard at work in the interest of the Colonel will be able to control the entire situation, ere long. Now that Thomas R. Davis is on the scene it will soon be evident just what the movement in his behalf amounts to, for although it has started out well, it looks as if nearly all the strength he will get has already been polled for him. The reason for figuring that way is that despite the cry that has been made that the South is entitled to the Senator, the disposition to keep the place at this end of the State is very pronounced. If, therefore, the Bard boomers succeed in getting twenty-five votes on their list they will be doing exceedingly well, after which it is believed a strong movement will set in for some other candidate—Van R. Paterson, for example.

Whatever influence Senator Perkins possesses here is naturally being extended toward giving the place to the South, so that the clamor down that way will be satisfied and clearer sailing assured him two years hence, when he sets about the task of succeeding himself. It is understood, therefore, that with Grant out of the way, Perkins is for Bard, and though he may not make a move in the interests of the man from Huachuca, at the same time he will have the roadways neatly paved for him whenever he has an opportunity to do so.

The Democratic fight is still in a tangled condition. Each side was afraid to go on when the caucus was called together last night and as soon as this became apparent a motion was made to adjourn the whole matter until Monday evening next, and was carried without opposition.

The resolution was introduced by Cutler placing Burchell upon the pay roll as a page, his pay to date from January 1st. Cutler explained that Lieutenant Governor Neff had appointed six pages at the beginning of the session, whereas the statutes provide for only five. The rules were suspended and the resolution adopted.

Stratton introduced the following resolution:

"That we hereby instruct our Senator to respectfully suggest to the President of the United States that the propriety of tending his good offices to the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and to the Transvaal Republic and Orange Free State with a view to bringing about a cessation of hostilities by offering to mediate the cause of differences between the belligerent nations."

This resolution differs from the original Stratton resolution introduced Tuesday in that it omits the suggestion of sympathy for the Boers and merely suggests the propriety of mediation.

Senate bill No. 5 (harbor improvement) was put upon its passage. Senator Wolfe spoke at length explaining provisions of the bill. Replying to the charge that the bill was intended to provide places for a horde of political opponents, he said that the statement was not true that the pay roll was now less than it was two years ago.

Stratton inquired if the bill did not conflict with the San Francisco department.

As the Colonel's vote now stands, he has lost Cosper and Barnett and has secured none of forty-one present, and of these it is conceded that three, four, or perhaps five are Burns men. When it is remembered that it takes 30 to consider a caucus it is seen that even under proportionate bill.

BOON FOR THE CUBAN VESSELS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—A bill was passed authorizing the Levee Board of New Orleans to change the levee line from the Marine Hospital at New Orleans.

A bill giving to Cuban vessels the most favored nation treatment in American ports was passed.

After the receipt of the President's message transmitting the bill, the Senate adjourned.

The Insular Committee of the House resumed the consideration of the Indian approval.

afternoon of the anti-Burns men there were only forty-one present, and of these it is conceded that three, four, or perhaps five are Burns men. When it is remembered that it takes 30 to con-</

M'KINLEY WILL NOT INTERFERE

Taylor Gets No Aid From Him—Goebel Holding His Own.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—After the Cabinet meeting the following statement was made: "The President and Cabinet do not, in any case has yet arisen to justify the intervention of the National Government in Kentucky, and has so informed the Governor."

Some significance may attach to the use of the word "Governor" in this statement, as much as the reply was directed to Taylor and not to him.

GOEBEL'S FIGHT FOR LIFE.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 2.—Gov. Goebel passed on the whole a comfortable night, and was in better condition this morning than yesterday morning. His respiration has decreased and is more regular, and his pulse is slower. Dr. Weiss said at 7 A. M. "We wish to hold no hopes of his recovery, but the man is at least holding his own."

GOV. TAYLOR'S TACTICS.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 2.—Governor Taylor this morning ordered that nobody should be admitted to the grounds of the Capitol under any circumstances. The passes which Goebel had given to him when he presented the object of the new orders is to prevent any civilian from serving any legal papers upon him. It is the intention of the Democrats to secure an injunction restraining Governor Taylor from interfering in any way with the meetings of the Legislature and exercising him and Lieutenant-Governor Marshall from exercising the functions of State officers.

There is no chance whatever that service will be secured on Governor Taylor's behalf by the Legislature, as the sentries and an entire company is posted night and day in the ante-room just outside his office. Every civilian who could possibly be a bearer of legal documents will be turned back by the soldiers.

No attempt has been made to enforce the order of Douglas Hayes. Governor Taylor, by his refusal to recognize the State Courts, has placed himself in such a position that he cannot make legal process against the warden. The only thing he can do is to threaten Hayes by force, and he has withdrawn his disposition as yet to employ this means.

PLAN OF THE DEMOCRATS.

The Democrats plan is to make a formal demand for admission to the legislative halls in the State House every day. As on yesterday, they will be denied admittance by the militia, all of which, with the exception of two companies from Barberville, will remain here, those two companies having been ordered to London for the meeting of the Legislature there next Tuesday. Governor Taylor gives no intimation of abrogating his proclamation calling for the Legislature to assemble at London. He is making arrangements for the session there. Many politicians went home last night on the understanding all intended going to London Monday.

"It is probable that a quorum will not be present at the opening session of the Legislature, and Representative Yarborough, who was to be before Tuesday night, of that you can rest assured."

REPUBLICANS CONFIDENT.

He speaks with great confidence and greatest the impression that sufficient is to be prevalent that the Republicans have something in reserve. Every effort is being made what the Republicans propose to do to thwart him by the restriction placed upon them in authority to speak or retort on their part. An effort by which Governor Taylor this morning was met by the statement that Governor Taylor refused to be interrupted; that he was engaged in giving attention to other matters that affected the welfare of Kentucky, that he had no time to attend to other matters for publication would not now be known when he would.

DEMOCRATIC PETITION.

Franklin Circuit Court: The plaintiffs state that they are members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, elected November election 1899, and were duly qualified as members of said General Assembly on the second day of January, 1900, and the said election held on the 7th day of November, 1900, was a regular election, at which members of the General Assembly could be and were elected. That each of these plaintiffs received a majority of legal votes cast at said election for the office of Senator and Representative of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and each of them, after being elected, the county boards of election commissioners, board authorized and designated or law to issue poll and award certificates, a certificate certifying to their election as aforesaid, except the plaintiff McKinley, who was elected by the Legislature after its contest. The court said that the election was for the Commonwealth of Kentucky on the second day of January, 1900, and have ever since said date been acting as Senators and Representatives for the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and each of them, after being elected, the county boards of election commissioners, board authorized and designated or law called the Legislature to meet at Louisville, Kentucky, on the 5th day of February, 1900, a place remote from the seat of government, and London being a small village situated in a sparsely populated part of the State with no buildings or room enough sufficient to accommodate the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, in which to perform their legal duties.

"That while they were engaged in the discharge of their duties according to law, the defendant, W. S. Taylor, on the 30th day of January, 1900, without right or authority of law, and in violation of the constitution of Kentucky and the laws in pursuance thereof by force of arms and with the regiment A Mother's Outburst in a Sensational Divorce Case.

Some interesting testimony was given in the divorce action of Lillie Reichsrath against Fred Reichsrath, which was on trial before Judge Hall yesterday.

The couple were married in April of 1894, and have been residing in Alameda.

Mrs. Reichsrath testified that she had been residing in Alameda since the point of a pistol at midnight.

The first trouble occurred shortly after last Christmas. One evening a lady friend called on Mrs. Reichsrath and asked her to accompany her up town. Reichsrath agreed and told all of her wife to leave the house. When she insisted on going he slapped her face.

From that time Mrs. Reichsrath said her husband began to treat her brutally. On one occasion, while they were quarreling, he struck her in the face with his fist.

The climax was reached when Reichsrath drove his wife out of the house with a pistol. This occurred about midnight.

Mrs. Reichsrath had retired with her baby. Coming home about 12 o'clock, Reichsrath began to shout and curse with his pistol. As had become his custom, one word led to another and finally Reichsrath went into another room and got his pistol. Mrs. Reichsrath, fearing that she was to be murdered, grabbed the baby from its bed and ran out of the house without waiting to secure her clothes. She continued her flight in the street, screaming for help, until she reached the house of her parents, a few blocks away.

Mrs. Reichsrath refused to return to her husband, and finally brought suit for divorce.

Mrs. A. M. Caswell, the mother of Mrs. Reichsrath, testified as to the cruel treatment her daughter has received.

"Did the defendant ever strike you?"

"Yes, Strike me!" she replied. "No man ever dared to strike me, or I would have put him where the dogs could not bite him."

After hearing the testimony Judge Hall granted Mrs. Reichsrath a decree of divorce, and ordered the defendant to pay the minor child. The defendant was given permission to see the children on Sundays and Wednesdays.

SUBURB-N PROSPECTS:

An Eastern writer contends that, with the advent of the automobile and the improvements in the electric railway systems, cities of the future will not be as crowded as they are today. He maintains that the era of small and restricted lots and towering buildings has reached its perihelion. That his reasoning is not without force is evidenced by such great centers as New York and Chicago, and the growth of the hundreds of suburban towns by which they are surrounded.

'Crowded and populous communities are not conducive to longevity, happiness or good health, and the sanitary laws and ordinances which have been put into force during the past few years are inhibiting to overcrowding and have a tendency to compel builders to devote a greater area to sleeping apartments. As a consequence this policy entails the extraction of higher rents than tenants are able or willing to pay, and by force of circumstances it is resulting in an exodus to the remote sections of cities or to the suburban towns. The cost of transportation by rapid transit lines has been reduced to an inconsequential figure compared to the excessive rates of rentals in town and the tendency of competition is to still further reduce the cost of fares. The tide having once set in the direction of the country, it will doubtless increase in volume, as people are but creatures of habit and will follow the crowd.

It is safe, therefore, to venture a prediction that the city of the future will not be a conglomeration of factories, business houses and residences, but will be confined solely to the uses of trade, while the houses of the people will be scattered far from the scenes of the day's activities. Even among industrial concerns the tendency is to seek the country, where the expenditure for sites is nominal and the advantages of having the employees living in close proximity to the scenes of their labors and under more healthful and moral environments than those afforded by a great city counteract the benefits derived from operating in crowded centers. The prospects of the suburban towns can in consequence be considered extremely promising, and the wondrous progress that is being made in methods of transportation will in time effect a complete transformation in present civic conditions, leaving the metropolis of the future but a center of stores, warehouses and offices convenient to transportation by ship and rail.

OUR LITERARY SYSTEM.
Literary circles are much concerned over the policy of some of the leading magazines in "sterning" noted writers. It is claimed that this is a rank discrimination against authors who, though less noted, are equally or more talented than those who revel in such brilliancy in the literary firmament.

While in a measure this agitation rests upon a reasonable justification, it must not be forgotten that magazines are published to sell and that a famous name will always attract the buyer, even though his work has depreciated greatly from the rank it first held. The average magazine reader does not care to take chances on non-famous authors, but prefers to accept the edict sent forth from expert circles that "so-and-so" is a fascinating and attractive writer. Then they follow like sheep and, rightfully or wrongfully, the touted individual quickly becomes a literary star of the first magnitude. After a writer's standing has been established in this way, his work is always in demand, whether it is good or not, and it is the development of this condition that is calling forth the censure of the literate.

It is clear, though, that their batteries are turned in the wrong direction. The fault does not lie with the magazine publisher, who is simply catering to the popular taste, but rather with the newspaper and other critics who start the ball rolling. If the needed missionary work is successfully accomplished there, the public can be relied upon to line up where the real merit belongs.

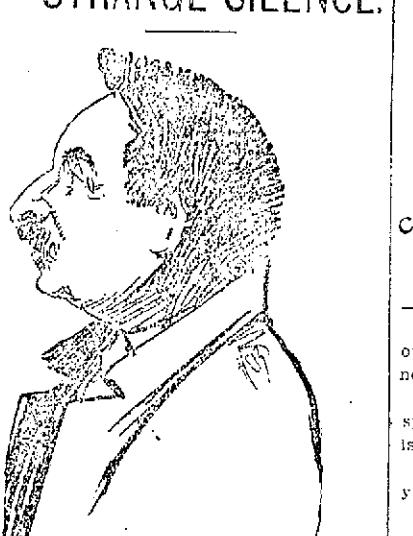

A newspaper writer figures that England, Germany and the United States could control the earth if they acted in harmony. The only trouble would be that after they got the whole thing who would arbitrate on a fair division of the terrestrial spoils?

A Missouri astrologer predicts increased prosperity for this country during 1901. It probably bases his augury upon the impossibility of Billy Bryan succeeding Wm. McKinley.

All those mass meetings that have been held to sympathize with the Boers was simply time wasted. Its the other fellow who stands in need of resolutions of confidence.

Tragic.
Twas an old horse, lean and shaggy,
Laid to by untoward fate;
And a hitching strap attached him
To rusty iron weight.
There old Tom was left enjoying
Till the night nothing could disturb,
And the weight lay on the sidewalk
Forty inches from the curb.Soon approached a fair young couple—
She was dressed in latest style,
And the boy's fog seemed lifted
For a moment of her smile;
She appeared to him a vision,
Noble man and cultured mind;
Striving to impress his virtues
On this best of humankind.In that strap his foot was tangled,
Down he fell like a surprised,
With his silk hat in the grass
And his eyelids purloined.
And the swear word that escaped him,
Made his fair companion sore.
Now the young man and the maiden
Strangers are forever more.—Peter Grant.

Policeman Scanlan, I have noticed a strange silence lately in your case. I pray thee, tell your Chief why these wrinkles on your noble brow?

UN-SERGEANT JACK SCANLAN—My

Dear Chief, when I see Sergeant McKinley and Clark wearing the straps it makes my heart sad. I cannot help but feel how much better the uniform would look on me. Yet here I am, one of the prides of the force, out o' night with the goats at Waits' tract. Is this not enough to make a king sad and silent?

WILL PUMP OUT A STAGNANT POND.

Chief Ball of the Fire Department this afternoon sent the old Folger engine to East Oakland to pump out the stagnant pond on Ninth avenue, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets. The old engine was purchased about thirty years ago, when J. H. Folger was Mayor of the city, and for years it has been doing little other than pumping out stagnant ponds. It is an antiquated machine, and attracts a great deal of attention whenever it is taken.

It is safe, therefore, to venture a prediction that the city of the future will not be a conglomeration of factories, business houses and residences, but will be confined solely to the uses of trade, while the houses of the people will be scattered far from the scenes of the day's activities. Even among industrial concerns the tendency is to seek the country, where the expenditure for sites is nominal and the advantages of having the employees living in close proximity to the scenes of their labors and under more healthful and moral environments than those afforded by a great city counteract the benefits derived from operating in crowded centers. The prospects of the suburban towns can in consequence be considered extremely promising, and the wondrous progress that is being made in methods of transportation will in time effect a complete transformation in present civic conditions, leaving the metropolis of the future but a center of stores, warehouses and offices convenient to transportation by ship and rail.

The young ladies of the Kappa Gamma Gamma fraternity of Berkeley entertained at their new chapter house on Sycamore way Tuesday afternoon. Among those present were Misses Ethyl Adams, Ruth Risling, Alice Risling, Alice Humphreys, Mabel Euch, Ethel Carlton, Anna Jennings, Ella Pattison, Eva Powell, Mary Stockton, Emma Moffet, Helen Powell, Marion Wilson, Ethel Venzelberger, Gladys Mathews, Mabel Donaldson, Edna Womble, Alma Sherman, Ethel Lichtenberg.

GRAND WORK OF FABIOLA LADIES.

Annual Meeting Held at the Institution-Reports Made Today.

The annual meeting of the Fabiola Hospital Association was held at the hospital this afternoon. There was a large attendance of members, and a great deal of interest was evinced.

PRESIDENT YULE'S REPORT.

The first accounting was that of Mrs. John Yule, the president, which is as follows:

"To the Members of Fabiola Hospital Association: Our hospital has reached another annual 'mile-stone,' and we are, as usual, assembled to review the work and to take action for the future.

"As in former years, we have received patients from every station in life-men, women and children—the total number cared for this year being 871. Of these 690 were cared for in the hospital, 170 were out patients and 82 were cared for by our district nurse—the largest number ever cared for in one year, notwithstanding the withdrawal of the railroad patients one year ago when their own hospital was completed. This is encouraging, showing, as we feel it does, the growing confidence in the high standard of the work done here and its genuine character, for a meek sun may look brilliant, but it does not make anything grow. Of the 690 patients cared for in the hospital, 111 have been unable to pay anything; 251 have paid a part of cost only. In other words, what they were able to pay, to the amount over so small; 231 have paid just cost, and the others have paid our regular hospital charges.

"In the hospital the number of days' free care given was 4,567; the number of days' care to patients paying less than cost was 1,727; the number of days' care to patients paying just cost was 2,564, and the number of visits of our district nurse was 1,654.

WORK FOR PATIENTS.

"Our free work exceeds that of former years, although the number of free patients is smaller. The number of days of free care is larger, showing that the patients were more seriously ill and remained longer in the hospital.

"The amount of money expended for patients unable to pay, computed on a basis of actual cost to the hospital, was $9,134. This amount does not include the free work of the district nurse, as the same was done in that department can not be computed.

"In the patient department, from 1 to 2 o'clock p. m. each day, the sick come to the hospital and receive medicine and treatment free, if unable to pay.

"During the year 120 people were treated free in this department, fifty paid half the usual charge for such services. Much kindly help is given in this department that prevents many times more serious illness restores health, and at the same time enables patients to continue work or the care of their families.

DISTRICT NURSE.

"From all sources I receive kindest reports of the work of our District Nurse, our health missionary. For six years this has been a successful experiment, one trained nurse who gives her time to nursing the poor in their homes. She goes from house to house, spending from one to two hours giving such care as the case may require, frequently bathing the patient, something requiring special skill must be sent, preparing covering to protect chill or cold, preparing such food as the sick can eat, showing those in attendance how to make the best use of the facilities at hand and doing whatever she can to assist the physician in his efforts to restore health. The result of her work no food that a sick person can't touch to eat. She then carries from the hospital broths or delicate bits of food that will tempt the appetite and help toward health and strength building. She always carries such surgical dressings and other supplies as may be immediately needed ready for emergencies, and thus our district nurse goes on her daily mission of mercy, doing an amount of good that cannot be put into words.

THE ANNEX GIFT.

"At our annual meeting last year we reported the beautiful gift of the Dottie Cooke Annex for children and the building of the educational college. We spoke of the great need of a separate building for a Nurses' Home, and before another moon, we bowed our heads in thankfulness because the Home so much needed was ours. But while we were given possession at once, at the special request of a generous donor, her name in connection with the gift is unknown for the first time to day.

Mrs. T. L. Merchant.

DONOR SUMMONED HENCE.

"When I gave Mrs. Merchant the promise that we would not divulge her part in the gift of the Nurses' Home even to our directors until this annual meeting, I little thought that before today, the Angel Death would have summoned her to come up higher. But on November 26, almost as gently as a child drops to sleep she passed to her reward. Mrs. Merchant had been associated with Mrs. Isaac L. Requa in her splendid work for the soldiers and Red Cross Society and, when, through Mrs. Requa, she was made acquainted with Fabiola's need for a Nurses' Home, her heart in connection with the gift is unknown for the first time to day.

Mrs. T. L. Merchant.

"Mostly, retiring, she shrank from publicity and in her many benefactions her left hand knew not what her right hand did.

THE MEDICAL STAFF.

"The medical staff of the hospital for 1899 comprised the following: Drs. N. H. Chamberlain, E. M. McDonald, C. E. Schon, S. Shinnick, S. M. J. Fenton, G. P. Whitworth, C. N. Saltridge.

"Consulting Physicians—Drs. R. L. Hill, J. C. Raymond, William Barwick, J. M. Saltridge.

"Surgeons—Dra. A. S. Larkey, A. L. Cushingham, A. K. Crawford, R. L. Hill.

"Gynecologists—N. H. Chamberlain, L. E. Nicholson, Susan J. Fenton, Alice Bush, Ruth L. Hill Jr., G. P. Whitworth, C. N. Saltridge.

"Physicians—Drs. R. L. Hill, J. C. Raymond, William Barwick, J. M. Saltridge.

"Oculists and Dentist—A. C. Peterson.

"Pediatric Specialists—C. L. Tisdale.

"Obstetric Surgeon (Midwife)—Dr. Stinson, H. Van Kirk, W. B. Church.

"Resident Physician—Dr. Lucilla Stone.

"Midwives—Mrs. Dow.

"Clerk—Miss Agnes Ryan.

NURSES' TRAINING SCHOOL.

"The actual employment and service of our trained nurses and the continued demand for them in the medical world, which can be considered by the number we can supply, is the best evidence and test of the success of the Fabiola Training School for nurses, and under the able direction of the Superintendent

Miss Calig (whose report will be presented toay), the school is well equipped.

"Each year each student receives

"a stipend of $100, and a comfortable soldier's home for its purchase.

"Mrs. L. L. Requa's WORK.

"The building was much out of repair, and Mrs. Requa, who has always stood ready to aid Fabiola, took charge, and at her own expense, carpenters, plumbers, painters, gardeners and other workmen and servants were soon busy for many weeks, making such changes and improvements as would best fit it for a healthful, restful home, where our nurses, when off duty, may find recreation.

"And so, the beautiful gift that came to us like a benediction, Mrs. Isaac L. Requa and Mrs. Requa, and on March 31, with beautiful and appropriate exercises, the Dottie Cooke annex was dedicated, the partially completed Maternity Cottage and the fully completed Nurses' Home were inspected, making a most memorable day for Fabiola.

MATERNITY COTTAGE.

"The hopes entertained of the advantage of a separate department for the children of the Dottie Cooke Annex and the Maternity Cottage, have been more than realized. Fifty-six babies have there opened their eyes for the first time upon this wonderful world, and, with one exception, are healthy and strong.

"There are three rooms yet unfurnished in the Maternity Cottage, and three in the general hospital.

"Mrs. Folger has the honor of being the one to furnish two rooms in the Maternity Cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Latte Oliver follow with a room in the general hospital and a bed in the Dottie Cooke annex.

MODERN BATHS.

"Another improvement under consideration by your directors has been the fitting of modern baths with hot and cold water, and facilities for electric, medical and electric, also the latest improved facilities for hot and cold fomentations and massage. I trust before the close of this year this great improvement may be realized.

MISS MARTIN'S BEQUEST.

"In April we received the bequest of $2,000 left to us by the will of Miss M. J. Martin. While it was not specially requested we were told that it was a wish of Miss Martin that the amount should be used in some way as a memorial of her uncle, John Archibald, and I trust, in time, this will be done.

"In former years, we have received patients from every station in life-men, women and children—the total number cared for this year being 871. Of these 690 were cared for in the hospital, 170 were out patients and 82 were cared for by our district nurse—the largest number ever cared for in one year, notwithstanding the withdrawal of the railroad patients one year ago when their own hospital was completed. A YEAR OF LABOR.

"While the year has been one of great progress in our work and the improved facilities enable us to care for our sick in a far more satisfactory manner than formerly, which is cause for deep gratitude, yet the adjusting of our work to the new conditions, the supervision of the buildings, the furnishing and moving into new rooms have made it an unusually laborious one to our supervisors, and I desire to call your attention especially to the faithful and efficient services of Miss Calig, Mrs. Dow, Dr. Stone and Miss Ryerson.

"Mrs. Winter was a most active and efficient worker until health failed her, and her wise judgment and deep sympathy made her loss irreparable to whatever society she pleased to connect herself with.

HAND OF DEATH.

"Death has again entered our ranks and carried away two of our esteemed members, Mrs. W. W. Foote and Mrs. N. W. Winter. Mrs. Foote, whose sad death occurred in the month of January, cast a shadow over our association, and, although we did not see her often at our meetings, we were strengthened by her fellowship and the cordial assistance and sympathy of herself and husband in all our undertakings for the good of the hospital.

"Mrs. Winter was a most active and efficient worker until health failed her, and her wise judgment and deep sympathy made her loss irreparable to whatever society she pleased to connect herself with.

TRAINING SCHOOL.

The report of the training school by Miss Sarah Calig showed 30 nurses in the school February 1, 1899, 22 admitted on probation during the year, 17 accepted. There were 61 calls for nurses, with private nursing inside and outside the hospital. There were 1,675 cases, 1,600 visits made by the district nurse as against 75 for last year.

The report also showed that the course of training for nurses had been shortened from two years to a year and half. Fourteen pupils graduated.

TRUSTEE'S REPORT.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Quincy A. Chase, showed surplus of $28,124.13 and disbursements of $27,856.83, leaving a balance of $1,267.27. In the expenditures was $1,722.75 for the resident physician, superintendent of nurses, matron, clerk and nurses, $2,421.56 for medical supplies, $2,283.36 for repairs of buildings.

WORKERS IN THE FIELD.

We owe this to ourselves, to the many who have assisted us, but especially to the skillful physicians and surgeons who co-operate with us who are giving such noble and skillful service to relieve suffering and restore health.

"We again express grateful appreciation to the press which has given us such encouragement and valuable aid, and to each and all who have contributed to the successful work of the year."

The report was ordered placed on file.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The next feature was the report of the secretary pro tem, Mrs. Win. R. Davis, for February 3, 1899, the annual meeting of the members of the Fabiola Hospital Association was held at its office in the hospital building, thirty-nine members present. The first business was the reading of the reports of the officers and committee, after which the annual election of the officers for the ensuing year took place. Mrs. Yule, Mrs. Chabot, Mrs. Standard, Mrs. Everson, Mrs. Chase, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Folger, Mrs. Grunhagen, Mrs. Cooke, Mrs. Barton and Mrs. Davis were elected. The annual meeting of the members was adjourned.

The directors' meeting for the election of officers immediately followed, Mrs. Barton in the chair. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. John Yule; first vice-president, Mrs. Win. R. Davis; second vice-president, Mrs. W. W. Foote; treasurer, Mrs. Q. A. Chase; secretary, Mrs. A. Barton; financial secretary, Mrs. William Grunhagen; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. L. Wilson.

THEY ARE WORKERS IN THE VINEYARD OF THE LORD.

Edited by MISS DELL JEWELL, of 608 Sixteenth street, Chairman of the Alameda County C. E. Press Committee.

Christian Endeavor is nineteen years old to-day. She is healthy and well-developed, and we believe it will be until time shall be no more.

A UNIQUE LECTURE.

Rev. Alfred Bayley's lecture at the Methodist Congregational Church last Tuesday evening was a good-sized audience. He spoke in a most interesting manner on the theme "My Experiences as a Fakir in India." He went there from England with a large company of young people who were pledged to devote their lives to God, their dress and living just as the natives do. As a result many lost their lives. After being in the hospital three times, Rev. Bayley was sent out of the country.

For eight months Mrs. Clark and I shall be wanderers upon the face of the earth, but we shall not get beyond the limits of our Christian Endeavor fellowship, beyond the reach of our Father's care.

My good-bye message to Christian Endeavorers is:

Pray more; Love more; Give more; Do more; Be more.

FRANCIS E. CLARK.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER.

While the County President has a great deal to say about his work, much time and is sometimes tiresome, yet now and then there are some very fine meetings, warm receptions, etc., that more than repay one for all the exertion and trouble.

In the city are sometimes apt to forget that our society is as large as it is, and that over thirty miles from Oakland we have young people just as earnest and active as any city societies, and I fear more.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR DAY.

Topic for February 4—Things That Endure.—Matt. 7: 21-27.

Let us never be tempted to ignore or disgrace our foundation principles. Let us never make light of our covenant people or of their love and fidelity.
